BLACK PEPPER
Piper nigrum

A wonderful energizing and emotional supportive oil, Black Pepper is often used to enhance memory and concentration.

Black Pepper sourced from India is considered superior because it’s particularly rich in piperine. Piperine stimulates the taste buds, triggering the pancreas to begin producing digestive enzymes. It is reported to tone the lining of the intestines. It is strengthening to the mind. May aid with studying, confusion, and memory.

According to scientists at the Nicotine Research Laboratory in Durham, North Carolina, the craving for cigarettes may decrease with the inhalation of Black Pepper essential oil.

A team of Japanese researchers reported that sniffing Black Pepper oil for one minute helped improve the ability to swallow in more than 100 people who had suffered a stroke. "Inhalation of Black Pepper oil might benefit older post-stroke patients with dysphagia, regardless of their level of consciousness or physical or mental status," the researchers stated in the journal of the American Geriatric Society
